Negroes Ask Ike To Help Fight Bus Segregation

Want President to Make Trip South to End Dixie 'Terror'

ATLANTA (UP) — Negro leaders behind attempts to integrate city buses in the South waited today for a reply to their appeal to President Eisenhower to end bus segregation and a "state of terror" in Dixie.

There has been no response from the White House to their appeal, which was made Friday night.

Some 60 Negro integration leaders from nine southern states wound up a two-day meeting here with a letter urging the President to come South immediately and use the "weight of his office" in the explosive bus segregation dispute.

New Test In Tallahassee

At the same time the Negro leaders framed the letter, a new test in the dispute arose in Tallahassee, Fla., when city buses started rolling again following an 11-day "cooling off" period.

Florida Gov. Leroy Collins, who suspended Tallahassee bus service New Year's Day following racial violence, withdrew his emergency order after the city commission passed an ordinance giving bus drivers the power to assign seats to passengers.

On another segregation front, Negroes won a victory when a federal judge ruled that a Virginia law aimed at upholding school segregation is unconstitutional.

The integration leaders who met in Atlanta told President Eisenhower in a letter that "American citizens have been unjustly and brutally attacked at home," as a result of integration attempts in the South.

Referring to recent bombings of the homes of Negro leaders the letter said "the maintenance of law and order in the nation finally rests. . .directly upon the President."

Urged To Speak In South

The letter appealed to Mr. Eisenhower to make a major speech in a large southern city urging "southerners to abide by the Supreme Court's decisions" outlawing school and bus segregation.

The Negroes also asked that Vice President Richard Nixon make a tour of the South, similar to the one he made in Europe in behalf of Hungarian relief.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who led a year-long fight to break down the color barrier on Montgomery city buses, was elected president of the group.

State Discusses Another Bridge At Maple Creek

Washington County Commissioner Francis Pettit, and State Highways District Engineer N. G. Bell yesterday discussed the possibility of erecting a second bridge over Maple Creek at the south end of Charleroi.

Nothing definite was decided but Pettit, chairman of the commissioners, said he would arrange another meeting between the commissioners and Bell to further explore the construction possibilities. At the meeting, Bell indicated some state help might be forthcoming.

The proposed bridge over Maple Creek would cross the stream a short distance west of the present bridge on Route 88. Construction of the bridge and proper approaches would probably do much to curb the current traffic bottleneck on First street in Charleroi where Route 71 joins 88.

Fallowfield avenue, running the length of the borough, is now one-way south and if a bridge were constructed its approaches would be connected to Fallowfield and ultimately to Route 88 and would probably handle one-way traffic southward.

At the same time, the present bridge on Route 88 would handle north-bound traffic only, feeding it into McKean avenue, the borough-length one-way street which now carries northbound traffic.

Ellsworth Man Drowning Victim Near His Home

Charles L. Steele, 70, of Ellsworth, was accidentally drowned yesterday when he apparently lost his footing and fell into a creek near his home. He had been missing from his home nearly 12 hours before his body was found partially submerged in the water.

According to police, Steele left his home shortly after noon Thursday and when he did not return a searching party was formed.

The party began searching territory which Steele was known to travel.

Shortly after midnight, one of the searchers, John Vrabel, of Ellsworth, saw Steele's partially submerged body.

Steele lived in Ellsworth for the past 20 years. He was a member of UMWA, Local No. 1190, Ellsworth.

Surviving are his wife, Mary and the following daughters, Mrs. Alva Carson, Mrs. Jay Hamrick, Mrs. Michael Petroff, all of Ellsworth; Mrs. Roy Decker, of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Alex Yowonske, of Charleroi; two sisters, Mrs. Mollie Stout, Mrs. Sadie Barnett, both of West Virginia; 17 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Irish Actor To Get Chance

NEW YORK (UP)—The producers of "My Fair Lady" said today they intend to go ahead with plans to replace Rex Harrison with a little-known Irish actor despite threats by Actors Equity Assn. to close the show.

The controversy centers around Edward Mulhare, 34, a quiet native of Cork who the writers and director of the musical want for the man to replace Harrison in the lead.

Harrison's contract allows him 12 weeks vacation and he plans to take four weeks of this beginning Feb. 4.

The opportunity to take over the role of Henry Higgins in the smash musical version of George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion" is the chance of a lifetime.

Railroad Contract Is Signed

Pittsburgh Steel Co. and Monessen Southwestern Lodge 447, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, signed a new three-year labor contract late yesterday afternoon.

The agreement, signed in the office of the U. S. Mediation and Conciliation Service in Pittsburgh, removes the threat of a railroad strike on Jan. 17, the expiration date of the former contract.

If such a strike had been called it could have shutdown the company's Monessen and Allenport plants.

A company spokesman said yesterday's contract is "basically equivalent" to the three-year contract signed last August between the company and United Steelworkers of America (AFL-CIO).

17 Meetings Held

Negotiations for the new contract between the company and trainmen began last April. Seventeen meetings were held before mediation assistance was asked last week. The first meeting under federal auspices was held on Thursday.

The new contract affects 160 members of the lodge. The trainmen help makeup crews which provide nearly all service required to operate the Monessen works.

Martin Swauger was the federal mediator at yesterday's meeting. Representing Pittsburgh Steel were Donald C. Duvall, vice-president in charge of industrial relations; Nicholas Polkabla, assistant to Duvall, and Earl Dunkerly, vice president of Monessen Southwestern Railway.

William Morgan, of Stockdale, deputy president and grievance chairman of Lodge 447, headed the union delegation. Also present were George Legge, general chairman of the lodge, and members of the grievance committee.

The announcement of the signing of the new contract was greeted with a sigh of relief in Monessen because a recent strike by about 80 engineers of the Donora Southern Railroad threw more than 4,500 employes of the Donora mills of U. S. Steel Corp. out of work for 21 days.

43 Dead as Wintry Storm Sweeps the Atlantic Coast

By UNITED PRESS

Wintry blasts howled past the Atlantic Coast today, leaving at least 43 persons dead in its wake, which extended over the eastern two-thirds of the nation.

The icicle-coated air, the coldest of the season, moved away from the central East Coast early today, but its chilly fingers continued to send the mercury shivering down barometer scales in the Middle Atlantic states.

Residents from New England eastward through the Great Lakes were blessed with relief from the sub-zero wave. Parts of the Ohio and middle Mississippi Valleys also benefitted from the warmer air. Temperatures scampered up as high as 30 degrees above the previous day's readings in some parts.

The Northern Plains and upper Mississippi Valley were offered no relief from the long-underwear weather. Residents renewed their tussle with below-zero air, as it dropped a few degrees lower than Friday's temperatures. International Falls, Minn., was once again one of the coldest spots in the country with a nippy 16 degrees below zero.

Despite the warming trend, snow sprinkles were predicted for New England and the eastern Great Lakes areas today. Snow was also expected to continue in the northern Rockies and over the Northern Plains states today. Mullen Pass, Mont., was presented with a hearty helping of snow again Friday and today. A 24-hour accumulation of nine additional inches of snow jacked up the total depth to 66 inches.

A United Press survey showed that at least 43 deaths were due to the frosty weather since last Wednesday night. Illinois topped the list with 15 fatalities. Nebraska, Indiana and Iowa tied for second with five each, there were four in Iowa, three in both New York and Massachusetts, and one each in Michigan, New Mexico and Vermont.

Youngwood Man Among Airmen Killed in Crash

ANDOVER, New Brunswick (UP)— 1st Lt. Walter A. Thomas, 33, Youngwood, Pa., was listed today among seven airmen killed when an Air Force B-52 jet bomber exploded and crashed over a remote hilly section near the U. S. border. One ariman was still missing.

The lone survivor of the crash Thursday was the pilot. 1st Lt. Joe L. Church of Charlotte, N.C., who told authorities the plane "blew up around me" during a routine training flight.

"I found myself sitting out in the open air without a plane," Church said. He parachuted to safety.

The bomber was returning to Loring Air Force Base at Limestone, Me., 15 miles northwest of here, when the explosion occurred.

The bodies of seven of the victims were recovered from the wreckage Friday. A search continued for the eighth airman still aboard the plane when it went down.

Allegheny County Commissioners Seek TV Outlets

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Allegheny County Commissioners, charging the Federal Communications Commission with "discrimination," today demanded more television channels for the Pittsburgh district.

In a strongly worded resolution marking the eighth anniversary of television here, the commissioners said:

"This area made history in giving the world its first commercial radio broadcasting station (KDKA). We may yet make history for being last in television."

The resolution noted only one commercial very high frequency (VHF) television station is now operating in Allegheny County. Smaller communities, the commissioners said, have a far wider choice of programs.

Dr. H. Underwood Reelected Head Of Country Club

Dr. Harold Underwood, a Belle Vernon dentist, has been reelected president of the board of directors of the Monongahela Valley Country Club.

A Donora man, H. O. Colgan, will serve as treasurer. Other directors are F. Bryce Kramer, of Charleroi, and Joseph L. Hoffman, of Monongahela.

John L. Boyle, of Charleroi, was reappointed chairman of the greens committee and Thomas P. Sloan, Jr., of Monongahela, was named chairman of the house committee.

Serving under Boyle will be William S. Skelly, of Pleasant Hills; H. U. Jenkins, of Clairton; James D. Hamilton, of Monongahela, and Phil Mollenaurer, of Charleroi.

Making up the house committee are Dr. H. D. Teal, of Clairton; C. R. McConnell, of Belle Vernon; Bryce L. Kramer, of Charleroi, and Frank Novosielski, of Monessen.

U. S. Behind Plan For Suez Agreement

WASHINGTON (UP)—The United States today threw its support behind a three-stage plan to achieve a Suez Canal agreement by the time it is open for traffic in early March.

Officials expected that Suez talks under sponsorship of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold would begin in New York "very soon." They expressed hope the negotiations would lead to a settlement despite the pressure of time and Israel's lagging withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula and the Gaza Strip.

'Phantom Killer' Case Goes to Court Again

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The case of the "phantom killer" of the Pennsylvania Turnpike goes to court again next Monday.

The action, in a non-jury trial before a federal judge, will decide who shares in the $11,000 reward offered for the capture of the gunman who killed two sleeping truck drivers on the famous toll highway in July, 1953.

John Wesley Wable, a one-time Ohiopyle, Pa. farm hand, was executed in the electric chair for the turnpike killings at Rockview Penitentiary in September, 1955.

The monetary squabble of 15 claimants for the reward money is the second of two legal battles still being fought as a result of the celebrated murder case. The other, now before the U.S. Supreme Court, involves the constitutionality of a court house ban on newspictures imposed by the county judge who presided at Wable's trial at Greensburg, Pa., in 1954.

Federal Judge John L. Miller will begin hearing testimony next Monday in a complicated suit over who deserves the financial credit for tracking down Wable and convicting him.

Those seeking a share in the reward range from the Police Relief Fund at Cleveland, Ohio, to Carolyn Smith Moore and Helen Gene Hanon, the young women who spotted Wable at Belen, N.M., and tipped police who captured him there on Oct. 11, 1953.

The Cleveland police claim is based on the fact that they were the first to connect Wable to the turnpike shootings through a stolen watch which turned up in a pawnshop there.

The Pennsylvania Motors Truck Assn. posted a reward of $5,000 after the second driver was slain on July 28, 1953. The Continental Transportation Lines added $1,000 and the International Teamsters Union another $5,000.

Attorneys for the various reward seekers will present their arguments to Judge Miller. He then will decide how to divide the money.

Workers Protest Action by Janos Kadar Regime

VIENNA (UP) — The shooting of workers in Budapest by Communist guns may touch off new violent demonstrations against the puppet Janos Kadar regime, reports from Hungary indicated today.

Reports reaching Vienna said workers in factories throughout the country were ready to follow the lead of the Budapest workers in protesting mass dismissals, government interference with workers councils and the return to police-state Communism.

The Communist regime, in spite of its protestations that no United Nations investigation is necessary because peace and order has been restored, acknowledged and continued unrest.

Controls Extended

It announced the extention until March 31 of controls on private and public demonstrations. Under the decree, the Communist militia has the power to break up unauthorized gatherings.

Red Hungarian militiamen, backed by Soviet tanks, used their guns to crush a series of anti-Communist demonstrations in Budapest Friday. The biggest clash took place outside the huge Csepel steel and iron works.

At least two workers were killed and an uncounted number wounded by Red police bullets, according to early reports. Later reports from Budapest said the death toll was probably much higher since the heaviest firing came after Russian tanks and armored cars had cleared the island of spectators and blocked bridge approaches.

Tanks Mass On Side Streets

As far as was known, the Russians did not fire on the demonstrators. The tanks which cordoned off the island in the Danube apparently came from nearby barracks. No tanks appeared in central Budapest, but they missed by the dozens in the side streets near the island industrial complex in southern Budapest.

Other anti-government demonstrations took place in Koebanya, Budapest's second biggest industrial suburb, and at two locomotive plants in southeast Budapest.

A march by locomotive repair men on Budapest was halted by a motorized column of Hungarian militiamen. The demonstrators dispersed after one shouted: "Better go back than stand here and get shot."

Numbers Play In City Still Under Wraps

With the exception of a few "bootleg" transactions, Monessen's numbers racket went into its third day of suspended operations today.

None of the City's regular bookies, with one or two possible exceptions, is accepting bets.

Those who are "bootlegging" are not turning in their numbers slips and money to the booking houses which normally operate here. Instead, they are turning them into houses in other parts of the Valley where the numbers pools are operating as usual.

No explanation of the shutdown of the illegal racket has been offered, although many persons believe it has something to do with factional political differences in Monessen and Westmoreland County.

Other gambling games — cards and dice — were said to have ceased after the raids carried out by State Police here early yesterday morning. State troopers arrested 21 men on gambling charges at the Fifth Avenue Smoke Shop at 475 Schoonmaker avenue, and six more at the Grand Parlors at 467 Donner avenue.

The shutdown of the numbers operations and the raids by State Police have thrown a scare into Monessen racketeers.

Even penny-a-point bridge players are looking over their shoulders.

Reynolds Renamed As Warden at Washington Jail

Charles W. Reynolds was renamed warden of the Washington County jail at the organization meeting of the Washington County Prison Board yesterday.

At the same time, the board voted to return President Judge Roy I. Carson as chairman of the prison board and Judge David H. Weiner as vice-chairman. Joseph A. DeFilippo, chief clerk to the County Commissioners, was retained as board secretary.

Preparing for the first County pay of 1957, the board accepted Warden Reynolds' recommendation of the list of his employes and then the salary board went into session to set the salaries of the various jail employes at the same figure as last year.

The only variation in Reynolds' recommendations was one that assistant warden Frank Sabolsky Jr., be replaced by Mike Timko of Richeyville, but the board decided to allow the recommendation to ride until the full board meets in regular session, probably next week.

Sabolsky was placed on the staff on a temporary basis at his regular salary pending the action of the full board on the recommendation.

Other jail personnel include Mrs. June Reynolds as matron and Beatrice Livingstone, assistant matron. Assistant wardens retained are Charles Greer, Charles Cornell, Louis Furman, James Rohaley, William Korte and Joe Fernandezo.

The Jail physician is Dr. John C. McGinnis, and Dr. Harry Cohen was retained as jail dentist.

New Gates at Lock No. 4

A new pair of steel gates has been installed at Lock No. 4, Monessen, it was learned today.

The gates, which weigh approximately 30 tons apiece, were installed yesterday. The operation did not retard river traffic, which was extremely light because most boats pulled ashore due to high waters at the Cheat dam area in West Virginia.

Although the water was high at Lock No. 4, the lock never went out of operation yesterday.

The old gates, a spokesman said, had become deteriorated because of acids and other chemicals prevelant in the Monongahela River.

New Jersey 'Bingo' Business Brings Needed Legal Revenues

NEWARK, N. J. (UP) — For thousands of communities the words "bingo" and "raffle" stand for chronic problems. At best they represent difficulties in supervision and at worst subterfuges for wholesale violation of gambling laws.

In New Jersey, they mean a multi-million dollar business, that is legal, carefully controlled and highly profitable for revenue-hungry local governments.

Most citizens see the situation as a happy, practical application of the theory that if the games can not be eliminated, they should be brought under control for public benefit.

Under New Jersey's legalized games system, the state provides the control and local governments reap the benefits.

In 1956 alone, $23 million in game receipts poured into municipal coffers. The take has been close to $50 million since 1954.

Raffle and bingo regulation is relatively simple in operation.

Charitable, religious, fraternal and civic groups are free to conduct games for profit under ground rules laid down by the State Legalized Games of Chance Control Commission.

For the privilege, they pay a $5 fee for each bingo game and a raffle fee of $5 for each $1,000 in prizes offered. The fees go to municipal governments. The state, which supervises the laws but leaves administration to local authorities, gets nothing, commission expenses being met by legislative appropriation.

The legalized games were born in 1954 with adoption of an amendment to the state constitution liberalizing provisions on gambling which freed the Legislature to enact bingo and raffles licensing laws and establish the control commission. Its five members draw no compensation and hold no other state office.

To stifle commercialism, game proceeds may not be used to rent premises.

Violations are few. With some 4,300 currently licensed organizations, only 39 overstepped the line in 1956. Of these cases, 19 led to license revocation.

The New Jersey games structure, alone in the nation to establish general supervision at the state level, has attracted queries from 31 states and Canada viewing it as a possible model for similar systems.

But it is not without fault. The commission recently cited its municipal partners for a "glaring deficiency" in failure adequately to enforce game rules at the local level.

And it is not immutable. Each year has seen amendments to the basic laws. The commission currently is pressing to extend its control from sponsors of bingo games to suppliers of bingo equipment.

Senate Group Plans Newsprint Price Probe

WASHINGTON (UP) — Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash) said today his Senate Commerce Committee will soon investigate recently-announced increases in the price of newsprint.

Magnuson said his committee staff has been working on an investigation of newsprint prices since mid-November.

He said he will confer in New York Monday with Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, about the effect on the newspaper business of the $4 a ton price hike recently announced by three major Canadian newsprint producers. Other mills are expected to follow suit.

"It's the little papers that really get hurt by this increase," Magnuson told a reporter. "They can't absorb it."

The chairman gave no date the public hearings on the price hike but informed sources said they may start in mid-February.

Magnuson announced the hearings after a Republican member of his committee, Sen. Charles E. Potter (Mich.), publicly urged an immediate investigation of the price increase and the "skyrocketing profits" of Canadian newsprint firms.

Potter said Canadian mills produce 80 per cent of the newsprint used by American publishers. He said the St. Lawrence Corp., one of the firms which announced the increase from $130 to $134 a ton, showed profits 58.7 per cent greater in 1955 than 1954.

"American newspapers, especially the smaller ones, face the most serious repercussions as a result of this latest price rise," Potter wrote to Magnuson.

"Small businesses are discovering that their advertising budgets buy less and less. This situation will force many of them to the wall unless we take action."

Potter said he asked the Federal Trade Commission to study the newsprint situation. He said FTC Chairman John W. Gwynn reported Friday the FTC was gravely concerned.

"He and his staff are in agreement with me that a public hearing is in order to get to the bottom of a situation which has all the evidences of restrictive trade practices," Potter said.

Plane Saboteur Goes To His Death Calmly

CANON CITY, Colo. (UP)—John Gilbert Graham, 24, paid for 44 lives with his own Friday night. He went calmly, at times jovially, to his death in Colorado's gas chamber at the state penitentiary.

The arrogance he had shown for all from the time he was arrested for dynamite-bombing a United Air Lines plane Nov. 1, 1955, was gone as he was strapped to the steel chair in the air-tight chamber.

He joked with Warden Harry Tinsley in his death house cell as he was leaving for the gas chamber. His last words, as the chamber door closed on him, were "Thanks, Warden."

A few minutes earlier, he told his attorney, John Gibbons of Denver, it was not true he had been bitter toward his mother, who was one of those he killed for her insurance, and said he loved her and believed he would join her in eternity after his death.

He ate only the ice cream from a last meal which included a large steak, french fried potatoes, combination salad and fruit. He had the remainder given to other inmates.

He did not die easily, however. The prison physician said "he had a very tough heart." It was nine and one-half minutes from the time the cyanide gas fumes were released, at 9:57 p. m. EST, until his heart beat its last. He was pronounced dead one and one-half minutes later.

No effort was made to save Graham after the state Supreme Court upheld his death sentence last October. Graham objected even to a Supreme Court appeal.

Before he died Graham raised more confusion over whether any of his confessions were sincere.

'Mad Bomber' Suspect Dies

Police Fail to Find Evidence Tying in Former Machinist

NEW YORK (UP) — Police were without suspects today after an early morning investigation failed to produce the mad bomber of Manhattan.

Tension mounted with reports that papers and notes bearing handwriting similar to that of the elusive bomber's had been found in the apartment of a machinist who had died two days ago. It was dispelled, however, when a handwriting expert said there was no similarity between the handwriting of Andrew Kleewen, 67, and that of the madman whose homemade explosives have injured 15 persons during the past 16 years.

GAINS PROMOTION — Glenn Conley has been assigned to the Greensburg district (which includes Monessen) of Peoples Gas Company as a dealer representative.

Police called in handwriting experts after making a routine check of Kleewen's Bronx apartment where, they said, they also found newspapers and electric bills which they thought might have a bearing on the mystery.

Kleewen, a Latvian, died in Fordham Hospital of pneumonia, according to police.

Search Uncovers Clues

Police, during a routine inspection of the dead machinist's apartment, found newspaper clippings and unpaid bills from the Consolidated Edison Company, against which the elusive bomber has expressed a deep-seated grudge in several letters. Kleewen lived in the Bronx.

Also found in the apartment were several "crank" notes, including one addressed to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles.

These, along with other samples of Kleewen's handwriting, were taken to bomb squad headquarters for comparison with the writing of the psychopath whose activities have touched off a nationwide epidemic of bomb scares.

As a Latvian, it was quite possible, police said, that Kleewen spoke in a German gutteral—the accent used by the mad bomber in several telephone calls in which he forewarned police and others of his planned activities.

Police also sought to link Kleewen with the deranged terrorist on the basis of a recent letter to a New York newspaper in which the bomber indicated he was ill and said "my days are numbered."

Intensive scrutiny of the crudely fashioned home-made pipe boms—the bomber's trademark—have led police to believe he was a machinist, middle-aged, of German descent and, probably, a bachelor.

They also have speculated he was a disgruntled former employe of the Consolidated Edison Company, or, at one time, an unsuccessful litigant against the company. This theory was based on the bomber's letters wherein he castigated the utility, intimating it had done him an injustice.

TO HEAD GAS GROUP — Christy Payne, Jr., of Pittsburgh, vice president of Peoples Gas Company, has been elected president of the Pennsylvania Natural Gas Men's Association.

No Rackets In USW, Chief Says

PHILADELPHIA (UP) —David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers of America (AFL-CIO), said Friday he would not tolerate racketeering "in any sense at all" in his union's welfare funds.

McDonald said the USW participated in the expenditure of $1.5 billion in the past six years for insurance and pension benefits paid to members and their families.

"We have heard a lot of racketeering in union welfare funds," said the steelworkers chief. "There is no racketeering in the administration of United Steelworkers welfare funds."

McDonald, speaking at the opening of a two-day meeting of 1,000 delegates from USW districts in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, said as long as he was president he could promise that "not one penny would be spent dishonestly by any members of this union."

Urges Investigation

"If I find anyone spending money dishonestly, he will, by the eternal gods, be expelled from the union for life," McDonald declared.

The union president said a Congressional investigation of the union welfare funds "with the finest microscopes available" would find them as "clean as the proverbial hound's tooth."

Union general counsel Arthur Goldberg told a panel discussion at the meeting that wage increases in the steel industry had not contributed to the inflationary spiral.

Goldberg said the wage hikes were made "with the ability of the companies to pay them without price increases."

The cost of living increases to the steelworkers "follow increases in living costs," said Goldberg. "They do not precede nor cause them."

Teachers College Students May Pay More for Dorms

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state Public Instruction Department warned today it was considering a hike in dormitory fees at Commonwealth teacher colleges.

Dr. Charles H. Boehm, state superintendent, said it "seems unlikely that Pennsylvania will solve its teacher college housing problems without raising dormitory fees. How much they should be increased depends on the results of departmental surveys."

He said at present students pay $3 a week for heat, light, laundry and building maintenance. Boehm also indicated that future dormitory construction would be planned on a financially self-liquidating basis with student rent paying maintenance and amortization of their original cost.

A survey of state teachers' college buildings and facilities is expected to be complete by the end of the month. An architectural and engineering survey of student housing conditions and dormitory costs is planned for the near future.

Labor Party Asking For British Elections

LONDON (UP)— The opposition Labor Party prepared today to demand immediate elections on grounds the Conservatives involved Queen Elizabeth in party politics by leaving it up to her to choose a new prime minister.

It was a technical point that rocked Britain because the constitution prevents the monarch from taking part in politics.

The queen was charged with choosing between Chancellor of Exchequer Harold Macmillan and House Majority Leader R. A. Butler when Sir Anthony Eden resigned as prime minister earlier this week. Normally, the party in power nominates a single choice for the premiership, relieving the monarch of personal political responsibility.

The Labor Party began maneuvering for new elections even before Macmillan was announced as the new prime minister.

The socialists met behind closed doors Friday night to map strategy to force Macmillan into calling an immediate general election on grounds his apointment Thursday was unconstitutional, although the term of the present Conservative - ruled Parliament does not expire until 1960.

The Laborites put off a decision whether to push the point until Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell returns from a lecture tour in the United States.

The dispute broke wide open before Macmillan had time to complete his cabinet. He was expected to present the new government to the queen for formal approval Sunday.

McDonald's Son Is Hospitalized

PITTSBURGH (UP)—David J. McDonald Jr., 17, son of the United Steelworkers president, was hospitlized here today with what doctors described as a 'possible virus infection."

Officials at Mercy Hospital said David was "progressing satisfactorily" and had spent a "quiet night asleep."

David was admitted to the hospital Friday after suffering nausea and stomach pains while at class at suburban Mt. Lebanon High School.

Mrs. McDonald, who was with her husband in Philadelphia for a USW meeting, flew to the boy's bedside.

Egypt Warning to Israel

CAIRO (UP)— Sources close to the Egyptian government said today failure of Israel to withdraw its forces from the Sinai Peninsula threatens to wreck everything the United Nations has achieved thus far toward restoring peace in Egypt.

Egypt will resort to "other methods" unless all Israeli forces withdraw behind the truce demarcation line stipulated in the 1949 Egyptian-Israeli agreement, the sources said.

Although the sources did not elaborate on the "other methods" considered by the government of President Gamal Abdel Masser, observers believed Egypt could either close the Suez Canal to future navigation or take up arms against Israel.

Earlier, the semi-official Arab news agency Mena charged that Israeli troops occupying the Gaza Strip committed "unspeakable atrocities" against Arab civilians, including what it called the cold-blooded murder of about 8,000 Gaza youths and a number of Moslem religious leaders.

Abdel Khalek Hatem, director of the Egyptian government information bureau, said today Lebanese Foreign Minister Charles Malik "carried no proposals from the Egyptian government concerning the Suez Canal question" when he went to Paris Friday to confer with French leaders.

Sun Oil Raises Gasoline Prices

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Sun Oil Co. today raised its tankwagon price for gasoline one cent per gallon to retail dealers in 11 states and the District of Columbia and by .8 of a cent in Pennsylvania.

The company said the increase was made to offset recent advances of from 25 to 45 cents per barrel in the price it pays for crude oil.

The one-cent per gallon increase effective with the start of deliveries today, were effective in Delaware, New Jersey, Maryland, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia, Michigan and West Virginia.

Bomb Tip at Moon School Is Called 'Hoax'

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Moon Twp. police today wrote off as a "crank's hoax" an anonymous telephone tip that a bomb had been planted in the community's junior-senior high school.

Officials quickly evacuated about 1,200 students Friday when the call was received at police headquarters. A three-hour search however, failed to uncover any trace of an explosive device in the $2.5 million school.

The bomb threat was the second in the area in a two-day period. An elementary school in Wheeling, W. Va., was evacuated Thursday after a similar anonymous tip. The calls followed a series of threats — some real, some phony—in New York City where a "Mad Bomber" is reported to be at large.

Sgt. William Taylor, veteran Moon Twp. police officer, said "someone may have gotten an idea from the New York threats."

But, he added "I think it's just one of those things that pops up." The threat was the first in Moon Twp., a suburban community northwest of Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, itself, experienced similar threats last summer. Theaters, department stores, newspaper offices and, once, Forbes Field, were evacuated following phony bomb scares.

Police, firemen, teachers and Army and Air Force demolition crews carefully searched the 700-foot long, one story Moon Twp. school before giving up the hunt.

Hungarians Look to U. S. for 'Inspiration'

LOS ANGELES (UP) — United Press correspondent Russell Jones, for 37 days the only American newsman in Budapest during the Hungarian revolt, said Friday night the United States still has "a great reservoir of good will" in Hungary, despite the failure of the revolution.

"Even now, the Hungarian people look to this country for inspiration and guidance in overthrowing the Soviet regime," Jones reported.

Guest of honor at a banquet of the Americans for Free Hungary Committee, Jones said the Hungarians felt "let down" by lack of U.S. assistance.

"But they have not given up hope, nor will they," he said.

"The United States stands as a symbol of the freedom they plan someday to achieve and it is because we are a symbol that they turn to Washington for leadership.

"I came back to this country three weeks ago expecting to find business as usual," he said. "But I was delighted to see so much genuine sympathy for those people.

"Perhaps it's because we have shouldered some of the moral responsibility for the revolt.

"Our government made implied promises to come to the aid of Hungary if she needed it. This was World War III to them, and in some quarters the Hungarians expected us to join in."

Jones added that most Hungarians looked to Washington rather than the United Nations for help.

"They had hoped to win the revolt through diplomatic channels with United States help—not with direct aid of arms and men," he said.

Having spent 15 of his 38 years in Europe, Jones says he believes the futility of the Hungarian revolt will dissuade other satellite nations from breaking with the Soviet Union.

"The failure of the West to support the revolt may have set back the cause of freedom for Soviet satellites by as much as 10 years," Jones said.

Rackets Obstruct Civic Progress

MONESSEN has had another visit from a large squad of State Police raiders who seemed to have no difficulty locating two downtown gambling joints, one on Donner avenue and the other on Schoonmaker avenue and both in the very center of the principal business district.

These places have been operating for months and we can safely assume that the local police knew it. Why, then, must it be the State Police who take action?

To answer that question properly no doubt would lead to a discussion of local and county politics. For it has been perfectly plain for a long time in Westmoreland County that there is a relationship between the operation of organized rackets and the control of the county's political life. It is no accident that on the eve of almost every important county and city election we have this restlessness in the underworld.

Lawlessness is deplorable at any time. But it seems to us especially regrettable that Monessen must continue to be saddled with this burden while its government and citizenry are taking some bold steps to build a better and brighter community.

Mayor Hugo Parente is the official primarily responsible for the enforcement of the laws in Monessen. As the City's chief executive, he is also a prime leader of the movement for civic progress, and we have been pleased to observe the effectiveness of his work in this area.

But why does the Mayor continue to jeopardize his civic leadership by habitual neglect to perform the more elementary duties of his office? Surely he realizes that if he is to lead the City effectively in a large program of self-improvement, he will need the support and confidence of citizens who want to be proud of their community — all of it.

It is not too late for Mr. Parente to make a New Year's resolution. The State Police have closed what we assume are the principal gambling joints, and it is reported that the old perennial, the numbers racket, has moved underground at least momentarily. Why does the Mayor not now resolve to keep it that way and henceforth to work with both hands, instead of just one, for a better Monessen?

Acheson Objects

THE APPEARANCE of Dean Acheson before the House Foreign Affairs Committee in opposition to President Eisenhower's request for congressional authority to protect the peace of the Middle East did not do the former Secretary of State much credit.

Mr. Acheson testified for four hours, which ought to be long enough for anybody to explain his views about anything. But the impression we get from the news dispatches is that Mr. Acheson is against the Eisenhower proposals principally because the President and Secretary Dulles are for them.

He says, for example, that what the administration wants Congress to do about the Middle East "frightens me to death". He speaks of "reckless talk" by Mr. Dulles and accuses the Secretary of State of proposing another "approach to the brink" of war.

But at another point in his testimony Mr. Acheson told the congressmen that what is wrong with the Eisenhower plan is that it doesn't go far enough. He said it "breaks little new ground and leaves untouched great areas in need of policy".

Specifically, Mr. Acheson said he would use American military force to preserve the peace between Israel and the Arab states whereas President Eisenhower asks authority to employ the armed forces only against armed Communist aggression and only when requested by nations whose independence is threatened.

Mr. Acheson's position seems to be, then, that he is "frightened to death" by a risk of war but that he would increase this risk by having the United States make even a deeper commitment to use force than the Eisenhower administration is recommending.

Mr. Acheson is much too experienced a diplomat not to be conscious of the inconsistency of this position. So we can only conclude that his testimony had a political inspiration.

As a man who had some experience with excessive partisanship in the conduct of foreign policy, it surprises us that Mr. Acheson would lend himself to such an enterprise.

Merry-Go-Round—

Says Dulles 'Filibusters' At Hearings

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There was more than just a burst of temper behind the walkout of Congressman Wayne Hays (D., Ohio) from the Dulles secret hearings before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Mr. Pearson

Actually, the Committee Chairman, Thomas S. Gordon of Chicago, is new at the job, isn't skilled in holding important hearings. Gordon, a Pole elected from Chicago, has excellent intentions, speaks English with an accent, has seldom made a speech, sat silently on the Foreign Affairs Committee for years, and through seniority finally became chairman. Affable, but insecure, he's arbitrary in order to give the appearance of being strong.

Committee members do not get full rein to cross-examine Dulles, despite the fact that a commitment to threaten war is at stake. They are given five minutes each in the morning, five minutes in the afternoon. And the Secretary of State, being an astute lawyer and former senator, filibusters. He answers the question at some length, so that before he has finished one or two questions, the chairman raps: "Your time has expired."

The astute Mr. Dulles also read a long statement which blanketed the newspapers on the first day. Thus newmen wrote little about his cross-examination. On the second day, he requested a closed-door session, and Chairman Gordon bowed. This was when Hays of Ohio protested.

"There was nothing that couldn't have been said in open session," remarked Congressman Jim Fulton of Pennsylvania, a Republican, afterward.

Dulles on Griddle

Congressman Hays, who recently visited Hungary, had asked Dulles earlier about Hungary's plea for American aid. Hays compared it to the request for aid which might come from the Near East under the Eisenhower doctrine. Here is the vigorous, unpublished exchange between the Ohio Congressman and the Secretary of State.

HAYS — "What is the difference between Hungary's asking for assistance, and our anxiety to go in and help the Arabs? Is it because of the Arabs' deep religious convictions? Or is it the oil out there — or what?"

DULLES — "The facts are not as you stated them. We never received a request for assistance from Nagy. But he is not there at the present time."

HAYS — "Suppose the same thing occurs in the Mid-East, and a few days later the man who asks for assistance isn't there any more?"

DULLES — "We would expect the request to be given in such character and form that it wouldn't depend upon a single person being there."

HAYS — "Well, this plan might not operate at all."

DULLES — (wisecracking) — "Well, if it wouldn't operate, perhaps there would be no objection to passing it."

HAYS—"What's the use of passing something to take care of a situation that doesn't exist?"

DULLES — "I don't know what you are talking about. Maybe it's just as well I don't."

HAYS — "I can fill you in some time."

Kentucky Humor

Sen. Thruston Morton, Kentucky Republican, has a sense of humor which sometimes gets the better of his discretion.

Morton was talking to a friend about his recent election in Kentucky and told about a political supporter who came down from the Kentucky mountains to see him during the campaign.

"We're prayin' more and more for you," said the political henchman.

"I appreciate the prayin'," Morton quoted himself as saying, "but how about doing more stealin'?"

Actress Congresswoman

Former Congresswoman Helen Ganagan Douglas of California, now a concert singer and actress, came back to her old haunts last week while her husband Melvyn Douglas, was playing the lead role of Clarence Darrow in "Inherit the Wind," the story of the Scopes monkey-gland trial in Tennessee which ended the career of William Jennings Bryan.

Mrs. Douglas visited with old friends, did not go up to Congress where she had once fought so hard for slum clearance, against inflation, and in the end was defeated for the Senate by Richard Nixon in a bitter campaign which first launched the technique known as McCarthyism.

Congressman Albert Thomas of Texas, meeting Mrs. Douglas at dinner, didn't recognize her.

"You look so much younger and beautiful," he said.

"She isn't black and blue any more from the low blows of Mr. Nixon," replied host George Vournas.

Two Parts of New Policy

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Mr. Dulles in his public statement did little to clarify and make concrete the new Middle Eastern plan. This unclearness is due, I think, to the fact that what is really new and of practical importance in the plan is something which it is difficult to talk about in advance. This something new is the authority and the means to negotiate and to bargain with the unaligned Arab states.

Mr Lippmann

I may be mistaken but I am supposing that Mr. Dulles is hoping not to have to show his hand before he plays it. His way of getting Congress to vote the authority, the men and the money, without his having to talk very loudly about something else, about the need once again to warn the Soviet Union not to attempt to conquer the Middle East by war.

There are in the plan two related yet separable parts. One is the warning to the Soviet Union or to a Soviet satellite, if there were one, not to commit overt military aggression. The other is the request for bargaining power to induce the Arab states not to become satellites, not to go overboard for the Soviet Union. It is this second part which has a certain novelty. It is on the first part that the President and Mr. Dulles have thought it expedient to focus attention.

Is Policy Good?

This may be a good public relations device for dealing with Congress, which is, of course, quite willing to take a firm stand to warn against aggression, but is reluctant to sign blank checks. The device is to make one package of the warning and of the blank checks Congress is being told that only if it "quickly dispels doubt" about our determination to resist the "piecemeal conquest of the world by war," will it have done what is necessary to preserve peace and freedom.

But is this good public policy? Would it not be better to separate the warning from the bargaining power? The warning could be adopted promptly and with something very close to unanimity. The short resolution being circulated by Speaker Rayburn would do very well indeed. It would be a declaration by Congress that "the United States regards as vital to her interests the preservation of the independence and integrity of the states of the Middle East and, if necessary, will use her armed force to that end."

Such a resolution need not and in my view should not become a "substitute" for the resolution asked by the President. Congress should give him authority and the means to negotiate in the Middle East. But Congress should act with deliberation and should avoid giving the impression that it thinks war is imminent and that it is being stampeded into signing away its control of the armed forces and of the expenditure of money.

Separate Actions

There is good reason for thinking that by breaking up the package and by taking the two parts separately, Congress would help to make the overall plan more likely to succeed. For one of the great defects of the Eisenhower-Dulles approach has been that it seems to imply that in accepting our assistance and our guarantee, the Arab states are aligning themselves with us against the Soviet Union.

Certain of the key countries unlikely to do this. It might be better, therefore, to deal with the warning to the Soviet Union in one resolution, and with the authority to bargain with the Arab states in another resolution.

Cities Need All Interests Behind Progress Moves

By HARRY R. PORE, Jr.

Park H. Martin has been one of the leading figures in the spectacular Pittsburgh "renaissance". He is a professional planning engineer, and as executive director of the Allegheny Conference on Community Development, a non-governmental body which has furnished much of the inspiration and many of the ideas for Pittsburgh's program, he has become a recognized authority on how to make better communities.

Mr. Martin was speaking one day this week to an industrial management group in Pittsburgh, and his subject was, not Pittsburgh, but communities in other parts of Western Pennsylvania. Since this includes us, have a look at some of the things he said:

"In some Western Pennsylvania counties many of the smaller communities are old and show signs of age. They are definitely at a disadvantage with more attractive towns.

"Unless they can be sparked to do a job of cleanup and to have well-planned communities with adequate municipal service they will suffer in competition.

"Many of these communities that need industry most are the ones that suffer most by comparison."

'Nothing Being Done'

And later in his talk, Mr Martin said:

"Today, more than ever, one of the tests that a community must face in the competition for securing new industry is whether or not it is a good place in which to live and work.

"The day is past when a shabby, dirty-looking town can expect to compete. Unfortunately, in some parts of Western Pennsylvania many such towns exist and what is more, nothing is being done about it."

I will leave it to the reader to say just how much of Mr. Martin's observations can be applied to the towns in this section of the Monongahela Valley. But I don't think it is unpatriotic to look in the mirror and face up to whatever we see there.

This self-examination, however, while necessary, isn't nearly so important as what we do about the civic conditions which we think need to be corrected. It is one thing, certainly, to recognize that our towns are growing old and, in some places, not too gracefully. It is something else to put the corrections in motion.

I wonder if it has occurred to Mr. Martin that some of the men with whom he has been associated in the Pittsburgh program, including perhaps some in his audience the other day, bear some responsibility for the obsolescence and shabbiness and civic inertia which he finds in the smaller communities surrounding Pittsburgh.

Some of the financiers and industrialists who make their homes and business headquarters in Pittsburgh have more important investments, such as mills and factories, in other communities. Yet it seems they lavish all or most of their civic pride and community interest on Pittsburgh.

Brains, Influence Needed

Mr. Martin must be aware that, once one of these smaller communities decides, as Monessen has, that it wants to spruce itself up, it will need, just as Pittsburgh has needed, all the brains, the enthusiasm and the money that it can possibly muster to get done what needs to be done. But in many cases, and I would include Monessen, the community does not have available to it the abilities and the influence of those who control and manage the institutions which form the basis of the community's economic life.

I think if I had a list of the members of the Allegheny Conference on Community Development and of some of the other groups which have been active in the rejuvenation of Pittsburgh, I could find on it the names of some men who could do something about the dirt and shabbiness of which Mr. Martin speaks in these smaller communities outside Pittsburgh. No doubt these men are intensely proud of what they have accomplished in and for Pittsburgh I wonder whether they are quite so proud as they visit some of the towns where their plants and banks and branches are located.

Mr. Martin is quite right when he says that Pittsburgh has provided a "shining example of what a city can do to reverse a decided downward trend". He could go on to say, I think, that other communities would like to follow this example and will do so But they, like Pittsburgh, will need to mobilize all their resources if they are to achieve comparable results.

Woods 'Telegraphers' Are Active in Winter

By JOHN H. DAY

The sun poked through the midmorning overcast, splashed the wintry countryside with gleaming gold, then went back behind the gray curtain. The thermometer took a stand just below the freezing mark and stayed there all day. Silence was the order of the day in the timberlands — silence broken only by the big talk of the brook racing out through the "draw", the occasional husky rustle of dead leaves still clinging to an oak, and the woods telegraphers tapping out messages in a code that was ancient long before Mr. Morse arrived on the scene.

During the spring and early summer these telegraphers become xylophone players, rolling out resonant rhythms from well seasoned instruments But now in the dead of winter, they practice the telegrapher's art, their messages full of bad news to borers and beetles and grubs tucked away in nooks and corners behind the bark of the woodland trees. There are five members of this telegrapher's union who frequent the woodlands in my winter hiking bailiwick.

I nosed the car into the muddy lane entrance and changed to woods clothes in the sub-freezing temperature The far hills were robed in the red-brown drapery of beard grass, that pernicious perennial known by most farmers hereabouts as "broom sage". Once this interloper moves in and gets firm foothold, everything else either moves out or is evicted The result is a dreary expanse of the brown banners of this pest, which seems in fair way to take over the whole countryside

Greeted by Flicker

First of the telegraphers to greet me as I moseyed around the top edge of the woods was a northern flicker who is spending the winter here. This beautiful bird is so well known to everybody that he is said to have 125 common names. The scientists call him "Colaptes auratus luteus", but I wouldn't call any bird a name like that, especially one so likeable and amusing as the flicker.

I heard him before I saw him. He was perched high in an old oak, looking out toward the south, and occasionally yelping "kleeyer'" just to keep his voice in trim for his March and April serenading When he saw me he promptly took off in his looping flight, that white patch on his back showing clearly in the gray January light Just as he flew a quartet of grouse got up suddenly from beneath my feet and scared me out of a year's growth.

The sun broke through the haze for a few moments and I leaned against a massive trunk in the quiet of the big trees At first there was not a sound, but soon I was aware of the telegraphers at work throughout the area His sharp "peek'" promptly identified one of these fellows as the hairy woodpecker, one of our common woodland citizens He was attacking some dead branches in the top of an ash tree, sending down a steady stream of chips and bark fragments

This particular woods houses a whole colony of red-bellied woodpeckers. Soon one of these zebra-backed tree inspectors came by to give me a nervous once-over. Their alarm note is a churring sound which reminds me some of the language of the gray squirrel. They are quite curious and I can always count on a visit from some member of this clan when the whole woods seems deserted by other bird life

Smallest Is Friendliest

I came to an opening edging a hay field and here encountered the friendliest of all the timberland telegraphers. This was the little black and white downy woodpecker, the smallest of the clan, and the one usually seen about the trees of our lawns and orchards. Everybody knows him, and everybody should respect him, for he gives yeoman service to the protection of our trees and shrubs against the hordes of insect enemies.

While I was watching the downy in the thicket, a tremendous chopping down through the trees advertised the axe-work of the big log cock, the pileated woodpecker, king-sized member of the telegrapher's union. Through the screen of branches I caught sight of the big fellow in action, knocking off chunks of bark and wood debris as big as my fist. He's a shy one, and as I moved in for a closer look he stealthily slipped down and out of the woods, swooping across the hay field to the shelter of the trees far across the valley.

Kotys to Market New Invention

Nick Kotys, the former Monessen athlete who is now an ultra-successful coach at Coral Gables High in Florida, is about ready to market his new invention — a seven man blocking sled that has been nicknamed "The Monster." The contraption does everything but bawl out the players who are loafing. Bells and flags keep the coaches informed as the linemen charge into the machine. The sled is operated on a hydraulic principle. Each of the seven boys must exert constant pressure to keep the flags waving. When a boy loafs, his flag falls and the bell sounds off key. If the seven linemen charge properly "The Monster" will issue a loud bong. If somebody is loafing, there will be a series of pings.

The Monessen School Board has authorized Athletic Director Everett Pancook to begin accepting applications for the position of baseball coach. The spot was left vacant recently when John Harhai quit the school system to accept a job in private industry . . . Have you noticed that two Monessen High basketball products are catching fire at district colleges. Joe Pastorkovich is going great at Alliance while Ernie Latanzio has won a berth with Waynesburg as a freshman . . . Harry Folk, St. Vincent College's leading basketball scorer, is a straight A student.

Is Officiating Poorer Today?

Judging from the reaction of fans, basketball officiating is poorer this year than ever. But is that really the case? At least one coach thinks not. He is Monessen High's basketball boss Frank Janosik. "The game, itself, not officiating, is changing," points out Janosik. "It's harder to officiate nowadays because basketball is faster than in years past. It's true some of the older officials don't bother to stay in shape with the result that they simply can't stay with the play. But it seems to me we have reached a point where two officials can't keep pace, especially on big floors. The answer might be to add a third official or to consistently overlook insignificant fouls." . . . Wise words, indeed.

Out of Greensburg comes word that Harold Smith actually hasn't submitted his resignation as basketball coach yet. Thus the school is not receiving applications for the job at the moment. Smith took over control of a motel in Miami, Fla., a couple of weeks ago. At present, his wife and son are operating the business. Smith will probably join them once the current school year ends . . . Press Maravich, who tutored the Aliquippa High cagers last season, has assumed a tough attitude in his new role as Clemson College coach. He suspended the team's top two players the other day for breaking training rules.

Sheriff Nicknamed Musial 'The Man'

John (Moon) Clark, assistant football coach at Donora, disputes the story that Brooklyn reporters named Stan Musial "The Man." According to Clark, that tag was given to Musial way back in the early forties during a testimonial banquet by Grant Furlong, current Washington County sheriff . . . Neil O'Boyle, recently appointed manager of the Monessen office of Seaboard Finance, was a footballer during his college days at Villanova . . . Three district players are slated to take part in tomorrow's seventh annual Pro Bowl game in Los Angeles. They are Chuck Drazenovich, ex of Brownsville; Bert Rechichar, ex of Rostraver, and Bill George, ex of Waynesburg.

Maglie Predicts He'll Have Good Year

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Sal (The Beard) Maglie, once known as "The Barber," fingered a magnificient vandyke today and blandly ignoring his 40 years asserted that he expected next season to be "even better" than his amazing comeback campaign of 1956.

Sal stood the baseball world on its collective ear last summer after being regarded as a "washed up" pitcher. The Dodgers got him from Cleveland and all he did was win 13 big games for the Brooks as well as pitch a no-hitter.

Take it from the healthy and eager veteran, it's all in the head.

"Two years ago, when I had a bad year, I felt like quitting on opening day," he explained. "I had a lot of back trouble and I hadn't learned how to live with it. I was holding back and hurting my arm."

Just Cut Loose

So when he got his comeback chance at Brooklyn, Maglie "just cut loose."

"The main thing with pitching is control," he explained. "That only comes with confidence. Then, too, Brooklyn showed it was glad to have me on the club. Now I know that the back won't get any worse and, if I need an extra day of rest I can take it, I'm so eager for the season to start that I can't hardly wait."

Sal grinned happily as he toyed with the vandyke jutting blackly from his chin, a publicity gag for Remington Rollectric, and allowed that with it he "looks like a vaudeville magician."

The Barber, who sports a perennial five o'clock shadow, never shaves before a game.

"I want to look mean and tough," he said. "Some of the boys dress for the fans, shaving just before they play. Me, I dress for the hitters."

Maglie is happy with his comeback year even though it could have been better. Because he won the first game of the World Series and, although he pitched a magnificent fifth game, had the misfortune to bump into Don Larsen's perfect game.

Sal said if he's better than last year, it will be just so much gravy. With a little "luck," Maglie believes he's in.

Incidentally, by that time the vandyke will be out.

Brownies Extend Charleroi but Lose, 49 to 42

Brownsville High's underrated basketballers extended heavily-favored Charleroi all the way before dropping a 49-42 decision in Section 5 play last night at the Cougar gym.

Inability to cash in at the foul line may have cost the visitors the game. They made only eight fouls in 20 attempts.

Meanwhile the Cougars cashed in on 13 of 23 attempts from the charity line.

Charleroi started off in expected fashion, rushing off to a 23-8 lead early in the second period. But the Brownies simply refused to crack. At intermission, though, the Cougars were still far ahead, 28-14.

He was the first draft choice of the Green Bay Packers of the National Professional Football League and this week signed a three-year contract with Green Bay calling for a reported $16,000 per year

Joining Hornung in the speakers spotlight will be Al DeLuca, popular St. Vincent College coach and polished after-dinner speaker.

District Holy Name officials will also offer comments.

Hounds Explode In Final Period Of Screwy Game

To their credit, it must be said that the current Monessen High basketball team is at least "different."

They have played in some screwy games this season, but none was stranger than last night's 50-34 win over California before 1600 fans at the MHS gym.

For three periods, it seemed as though neither side wanted to win In particular, the Hounds appeared intent upon presenting the tussle to the visitors.

Happily California didn't seem to want the game either.

At the end of the first period, Monessen led, 8-4. At intermission the score was 14-12 in Monessen's favor.

Oddly enough, neither team was deliberately trying to slow down the action. The boys simply weren't hitting on their shots.

In the third quarter, the tempo picked up a little and Monessen eventually nudged away to a 28-20 advantage.

Go to Work

Fortunately the Hounds went to work in the closing stanza. They flashed their usual form in the waning moments to win going away.

Maurice Mathieu led the winners with 16 points. Carl Crawley had 12. For the Trojans, Ewing Bell was high with a dozen markers.

A rarity of the game was the fact that neither side made a foul in the first half. Monessen missed on four tries from the charity line while the Trojans muffed three chances.

It wasn't until two minutes had gone in the third period that Monessen's Dick DiBiaso scored the first foul of the night.

Game Statistics

Statistically Monessen wound up making 21 of 75 field goal attempts for 28 per cent shooting. That isn't a pathetic percentage by any means, but the Hounds missed so many easy shots that the cold figures don't tell the true story.

California wound up making 13 fielders in 41 attempts for 32 per cent accuracy.

The win was the third straight this season in Section 5 play for Monessen. The Hounds have won 37 in a row over a four year period in league competition.

Monessen's season-long record is 8-4. California's year long slate is 2-7.

However the Dragons spurted to square things at 26-all by intermission. In the third period, the Donorans scored eight straight points and the Canes were never again able to overtake their hosts.

Bill Schmidt, 6-2 senior, led the Bellmar scoring with 26 points.

Waner to Get Outdoors Again

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP)— Paul Waner, member of baseball's Hall of Fame, planned to "get some sunshine" today for the first time since he suffered a severe attack of pneumonia two weeks ago.

The 53-year-old Waner was scheduled to make an appearance at the opening of the Sarasota Herald - Tribune's annual baseball clinic for boys.

But his wife said the one-time feared batter of the Pittsburgh Pirates still is "very weak" and had lost weight. He was brought home from the hospital Tuesday.

Waner's condition was described as critical when he was taken to Sarasota Memorial Hospital Dec. 29. suffering from pneumonia. But "Big Poison" gradually responded to drugs and treatment that included an oxygen tent.

Waner makes his home here and serves as a batting instructor for the Milwaukee minor league system.

Unbeaten College Quints Have Easying Pickings This Evening

By TIM MORIARTY

Kansas and North Carolina, the nation's only major unbeaten college basketball teams, expect easy pickings again tonight when they place their imposing records on the line against conference opponents.

The top-ranked Jayhawks go after their 12th straight victory of the season against Kansas State in a Big Seven Conference game on their home court. K-State won its first four games, including an upset 84-77 verdict over Indiana, but then dropped four straight to Minnesota, Iowa, Oklahoma and Iowa State.

North Carolina's New York-bred Tarheels registered their 13th straight victory Friday night by whipping Clemson, 85-54, in an Atlantic Coast Conference game. They meet Virginia, another conference "patsy," tonight at Chapel Hill.

Six other members of the United Press top 10 also have conference engagements.

Kentucky (No. 3) visits Louisiana State, Southern Methodist (No. 4) meets Texas Christian on the Horned Frogs home court, UCLA (No. 6) concludes its weekend series with Washington State at Los Angeles, Oklahoma A&M (No. 8) visits Houston. Vanderbilt (No. 9) is at Mississippi, and Illinoi, (No. 10) is at Wisconsin. Louisville (No. 5) and Iowa State (No. 7) are idle.

In other games involving rated teams, San Francisco's defending national champions entertain Fresno State, Wake Forest hosts South Carolina, Brigham Young visits Wyoming, Duke entertains Clemson, St. Louis is at Detroit. Canisius hosts St. Vincent, and Manhattan plays Navy at Madison Square Garden.

Columbia, led by Chet Forte's 30 points, dumped Harvard out of first place in the Ivy League Friday night by defeating the Cantabs, 80-61, while Temple turned back St. Francis (Pa.), 60-51; Colgate edged Boston University, 55-54; Duquesne nipped Cincinnati. 60-59, and St. Josephs (Pa.) beat Westminster, 75-63.

Elsewhere, Iowa State trampled Drake, 97-71; Elgin Baylor's 18 points helped touring Seattle to a 70-59 triumph over Oklahoma City; California whipped Oregon, 53-46, to remain unbeaten in the Pacific Coast Conference; Santa Clara spanked College of Pacific, 79-49; Rice beat Texas, 76-66; Wyoming hustled to an 86-78 victory over Utah State; Nevada trounced deflated San Francisco, 98-79, and UCLA registered its 30th straight PCC victory by dumping Washington State, 87-65.

Giants 'Officially' Accept Jackie's Retirement Plan

NEW YORK (UP) —The New York Giants sadly accepted Jackie Robinson's retirement as the "awful truth" today and faced up to the necessity of making a major player deal to offset his loss.

The Giants learned Friday night —with no "ifs, ands or buts". — that the 38-year-old Negro star is rejecting their $50,000-plus offer to reconsider his retirement. Robinson broke the news to Giant Vice President Chub Feeney after considering the offer for 24 hours.

Robinson informed Feeney that he will write his formal request to be placed on the voluntary retired list this weekend. Feeney said the Giants expect to receive the letter Monday and will forward it immediately to National League President Warren Giles in Cincinnati.

The Dec. 13 deal in which the Giants thought they acquired Robinson from the Brooklyn Dodgers for an estimated $30,000 and pitcher Dick Littlefield will become void as soon as Giles passes on Robinson's request.

Robinson's decision was a severe blow to the Giants, who hoped the fiery, controversial star would prove a tonic to their slumping gate and also be capable of playing about 110 games at first base next season. The Giants' regular first-baseman, Willie White, has been drafted by the Army.

The Giants' officials made no secret of the fact that they must now attempt to swing another deal but did not indicate the player or players they are after. Informed sources believe they will make offers for both Bobby Thomson of the Milwaukee Braves and Frank Thomas of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

50,000 Fans to See Pro Bowl Game Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES (UP) —The nation's best professional football players will write an end to the extended football season Sunday in the seventh annual Pro-Bowl game at Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

Advance ticket sales indicate that upwards of 50,000 fans will be on hand to witness the contest pitting the best from the Western Division against the top players in the Eastern Conference.

The West enters the game a slight 2½ point favorite. This could be somewhat of a jinx. In the past each time the West was favored, the East won. This was the case last year when the East won a thriller, 31-30, to tie the series at three games each.

This will be the incentive for the Western players. They want to avenge that defeat. In addition, they wanted revenge for the humiliating 47-7 defeat handed the Western Division champions, the Chicago Bears, by the New York Giants in the National Football League title game two weeks ago.

Both coaches, Jim Lee Howell of the East and Paddy Driscoll of the West, report their teams are in excellent physical condition. It will be a rematch for these two coaches who opposed each other in the NFL championship game, Driscoll at the helm of the Bears and Howell leading the Giants.

There is no question that the best in the two divisions will be playing. All 22 players named to the United Press offensive and defensive all-pro units are on the combined 62-man roster, and nine second team nominees will see action.

The game will not be televised, the sponsoring Los Angeles newspaper not having been able to arrange with a network to handle the contest.

NCAA Ends 51st Convention, New Amendments Listed

ST. LOUIS (UP) —The National Collegiate Athletic Assn. closed the business of its 51st convention today on a note of almost complete harmony.

A new executive committee and a new television committee will be named today.

Frank N. Gardner of Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa, was elected president at the conclusion of Friday's business session.

An amendment on financial aid to student - athletes, ruled a student may accumulate through jobs, scholarships and the GI Bill of Rights during a school term no more than "commonly accepted educational expenses," which the NCAA said included tuition and fees, room and board, books, and not more than $15 a month for laundry.

A recruiting amendment places all funds for recruiting a student-athlete under control of the member institution. It also permits the school to finance one trip to the campus for a prospective student-athlete.

A report said the NCAA now realizes "there is no appreciable sentiment in professional baseball to help college baseball." It charged further there was "overwhelming evidence ... professional baseball is more interested in retarding the growth and development of the college game."

Harvard drew a sharp rebuke from the American Football Coaches Assn., in the form of a unanimous vote of confidence in Lloyd Jordan, who Harvard fired after this season for "poor teaching." The AFCA praised Jordan for his "great contribution" to college football and as an "outstanding teacher and leader of young men during his career as a coach."

The extra events committee of the convention won approval for two new bowl games next season —the Mineral Water Bowl at Excelsior Springs, Mo., and the Cigar Bowl at Tampa, Fla. Twelve bowl games now have NCAA approval.

Carter Easily Decisions Baker In Dull Bout

NEW YORK (UP) — Speedy young Harold Carter, spurred by the most impressive victory of his career, declared today, "bring on Hurricane Jackson next!"

Carter, the socking Sunday school teacher from Linden, N.J., handed a lopsided beating Friday night to big Bob Baker of Pittsburgh?the same Baker won last year lost two questionable split decisions to top heavyweight contender Jackson.

Using in-and-out tactics, nimble Harold was so superior to 30-year-old Baker in their TV-radio 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden that the three ring officials gave him the decision on a rounds basis, 8-1-1, 8-2, and 8-1-1. The United Press agreed. 8-2.

Many of the ringsiders concluded that big Bob is definitely "washed up." Ironically, however, Manager Dusty Bettor said, "Bob was just off form and dull because of idleness. He had only three bouts last year. I'm going to string along with him, and try to have him fight every six weeks."

That was a verbal about-face, indeed, for Bettor. Only Friday the pilot said, "if Baker doesn't win tonight, I'm through with him. It'll be win—or goodbye."

Zenith Quality Performances Is Giving Much Better TV Pleasure

Now that long Winter evenings have settled in Monessen and the Valley you'll want to get more pleasure from your television set, as will every member of your family.

That means if that old set isn't functioning properly, you'd be wise to go to the Monessen Plumbing & Electric Company, 535-537 Donner avenue, and get one of those new Zenith '57 models.

Here Zenith performance has reached its quality peak for the finest, cleanest, sharpest picture in television. More picture power, more picture brightness, more picture contrast.

It's virtually impossible to get better TV performance because Zenith puts in more quality performance features.

And here is something new and sensational, the one and only thing new in television, the Zenith Space-Command tuner. It shuts off long, annoying commercials while the picture stays on the screen. No wires! No cords! No flashlights! No radio control waves! No batteries! Nothing between you and the set but space.

It answers silent commands from your easy chair and you don't even have to aim it at the set — turns set on and off, turns sound off and on, changes channels to right or left. It operates the TV from up to thirty feet away. You hear nothing — you see nothing. It's Zenith's TV magic! It's foolproof — works every time! Only Zenith has it. So easy to use, even a two year old child can accurately tune TV from anywhere in the room.

More picture stability is also offered in the Zenith Miracle tube, better picture reception near or far from station.

By all means if you want the best in television, go to the Monessen Plumbing & Electric Co., look over these great TV sets, pick the one you want and you're in for really fine TV performance.

John Says:

Who said it doesn't take brains to run a filling station? You gotta be a genius just to remember where the gas filler caps are on all the new models.

Roush's Gulf Is Place to Drive Car These Days

Your service station owner and attendant is the man you, Mr. Motorist, and your automobile should be thankful is in business these cold Winter days and the weeks and weeks ahead of us when anything can happen to the weather — and your car, if you are not careful!

By being careful, means taking it to that service station at periodic intervals to have it checked.

Be sure you have sufficient anti-freeze in the radiator and that the radiator or your hose connections are not leaking. Your cooling system is doubly important during the drastic cold-weather months.

Also keep it thoroughly lubricated, every 1,000 miles, and be sure and have new oil of the proper Winter grade put in at the same time. This is the life of your motor, means better car performance, lower garage bills.

Is the battery properly charged for the extra "call" put on it for cold-weather starting? See that it has water in it at allt imes, that it is well charged. Replace it at the first sign of failure — you don't want a weak power system in your car.

These are little inexpensive check-ups that mean so much to better and more economical motoring.

Roush's Gulf Service, corner of Manown and Schoonmaker in Monessen, will give your automobile the kind of winter service you have a right to expect.

Fine Gulf oil products plus the efficient service of John Roush, the proprietor, mean a lot in your car preservation program.

And TV stamps are also given away here, too!

You motorists will be wise to patronize this modern Roush Gulf service station.

Sanford Service Protects Car in Winter Weather

It's Winter, Mr. Motorist, and will be for some time to come in this area, and there's no denying that!

Not pleasant always for driving, for most of us do not like real cold weather, icy or snowy roads, but the business of driving a car in most cases must go on, particularly if we need it in business and today most of us do.

That is why it pays to keep it in perfect mechanical shape and there's only one solution to that—take it to an expert garageman and let a skilled mechanic check it over, find out what mechanical trouble you might be having, and then correct it.

Perhaps all you need is a motor tuneup or an adjustment here or there. Or a new set of plugs, a carburetor adjustment, etc. Just little things can cause poor starting, bad performance.

In the long run you save on gasoline and oil by keeping your car in good shape, because a motor that is functioning perfectly naturally consumes less fuel.

Chances are you'll save what a motor checkup and tuneup costs on fuel alone!

Sanford Service, 267 East Donner avenue. Phone MU 4-5589, of which Alex Turda is owner, offers general repair service on all makes and models of cars. This is also an authorized Dodge-Plymouth service garage.

You'll get that efficient service here that means so much to your car and happier motoring. Let Sanford Service make that check-up and needed repairs right now.

O for A to Wed

BERGAMO, Italy (UP)—Pretty 20-year-old Bruna Valsecchi tearfully postponed her wedding today. Miss Valsecchi received a notice to report for military induction because local authorities had erroneously registered her birth as "Bruno" —a male name.

U. S. Officials Hope Queen Will Bring Children

WASHINGTON (UP)— American officials said today they hope if Queen Elizabeth visits the United States she will make it a family affair and bring the children.

If she does, eight-year-old Prince Charles and six-year-old Princess Anne possibly would play and romp with President Eisenhower's grandchildren on the White House lawn. They might even go to the President's Gettysburg, Pa., farm for a taste of old-fashioned American farm life.

The United States has asked if the queen would like to visit America again. The United States suggested October.

London sources said Friday the queen is considering the informal invitation but probably will not make a decision until her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, returns from his round-the-world trip next month.

New 'Hot Spot' Is Reported on Arab Peninsula

LONDON (UP)—The Yemen's ambassador to Egypt scheduled a meeting today with its Arab military allies to discuss what he described as a "very serious" situation arising from British military actions on the southern tip of the Arabian peninsula.

The new "hot spot" was the vaguely - defined border between Yemen and the British protectorate of Aden.

Yemeni Ambassador Abdul Rahman Abu Taleb will confer with Maj. Gen. Hafez Ismail, chief of staff of the joint command of the Egyptian, Saudi Arabian, Yemeni armed forces in Cairo. The combined force was set up last April and commits each nation to regard an attack on anyone as an attack on all.

Abu Taleb met with U.S. Ambassador Raymond Hare Friday and said he asked for U.S. intervention to "put a stop to British aggressions against Yemen territory."

Congressman Green to Get Warrant Today

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Congressman William J. Green Jr., Democratic city chairman, was expected to be served with a federal warrant for his arrest today on charges he accepted a bribe in connection with construction of the U. S Signal Corps Depot at Tobyhanna, Pa., near Scranton.

The warrant, issued late Friday by U. S. District Judge John W. Murphy in Scranton, charges the Philadelphia congressman with accepting a $10,000 bribe from Frederick Raff, a heating and plumbing contractor from Hartford, Conn. The Raff firm had a contract for more than $2-million in the construction of the giant Pocono Mountains depot.

Green also is accused of selling the influence of his congressional office in connection with the construction job The indictment against Green and several others was handed down on Dec 14 but the warrant against the congressman was held in abeyance until Jan. 3 when he was sworn in to his fourth term of office in Washington.

Murphy also issued bench warrants for the arrest of the president of a Huntingdon Valley, Pa., firm and a former supervising purchasing agent at the United States Naval Supply Depot at Mechanicsburg, Pa

John A. Burke, 60, president of the Burke Construction Co., and Alfred J. Rein, 53, of Camp Hill, near Harrisburg, were indicted by the grand jury at Scranton last Nov. 5.

Burke is accused of making false statements on government contract bidding and Rein is charged with being "directly and indirectly interested" in the operation of Burke's firm while acting as purchasing agent at the Naval Depot

The government claims Rein's wife was treasurer of Burke's company and that she was listed under the name of "Frank M. Ryan."

The Burke Company handled dozens of government contracts which ran into tens of thousands of dollars. Specifically, Burke is accused of claiming he had been in business 20 years and had 23 employes whereas the government claims his company had in reality been in existence three months and had only "four or five employes.

Hammarskjold to Get Report on Hungary

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) —United Nations Representative Philippe De Seynes arrives today to report to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on the results of his relief inspection visit to Hungary.

De Seynes, undersecretary for economic and social affairs and in charge of U.N. aid to Hungary, headed a four-man U.N. team to Budapest for on-the-spot observations and consultations on the relief needs of the Hungarian people.

The mission arrived in Budapest last Friday. It was the first official U.N. mission permitted within Hungary since the freedom uprising. No advance announcement of the visit was made at the request of the Communist Hungarian regime. The presence of the U.N. mission also was kept secret from the Hungarian people during its three-day visit

Conferred With Premier

De Seynes and three other world organization officials conferred with puppet Premier Janos Kadar and various other officials in an effort to determine how U.N aid channeled through the International Red Cross can be distributed most effectively in the revolt-torn nation.

Although the Communist Hungarian regime lifted the Iron Curtain for the U.N. relief mission, it made clear it has no intention of admitting any U.N. investigation commission.

The General Assembly, by a vote of 59 to 8, set up a five-nation commission Thursday to investigate the situation in Hungary, including Soviet Russia's armed intervention. The committee included Australia, Denmark, Ceylon, Tunisia and Uruguay.

Hungary Submits Protest

Hungary, in a note delivered by its representatives here to Hammarskjold Friday night, vigorously protested the actions as "unprecedented, gross interference." It demanded the Hungarian question be stricken from the agenda of the General Assembly.

The 27-nation Afro-Asian bloc met Friday night to draft a resolution demanding Israel withdraw its troops behind the demarcation lines set up under the 1949 Palestine armistice without delay.

Your Health—

Poison Ivy Victims Need Help

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

It's time to start thinking about poison ivy. No kidding.

If you are one of those unfortunate persons who suffers each year with a case of poison ivy — maybe a prolonged case — and have little hope of avoiding the offending weed this year, better ask your doctor about desensitization shots now. Weekly shots of an extract are often very helpful for those with Rhus Dermatitis.

Allergenic substances from the Rhus plant group, incidentally, are identical whether they are from ivy, oak or sumac. Yet persons suffering from acute attacks of poison ivy dermatitis are usually sensitive to that plant alone.

With persons developing chronic weed dermatitis, however, this is not the case.

The weekly injections should begin in January, February or March at the latest. For best results, they should be continued throughout the summer.

The initial dose is a small one, only 0.02 cc. Unless a reaction occurs, the subsequent doses are progressively doubled.

If there is a reaction, it's usually advisable to repeat the previous dose. Possible reactions include local inflammation, muscle pain, fever, nausea and vomiting.

It's up to a doctor, of course, to determine whether your allergy is actually due to the Rhus plants, or some other weed. Generally this is accomplished through a "patch" test, a specialized procedure which should be performed only by an experienced person.

Once the sensitizing agent has been determined, much of the battle has been won. Simply to avoid the offending plant or weed may be the solution.

If this is impossible, the answer in most cases is desensitization. And for those of you with poison ivy dermatitis, the time for those desensitization injections is here.
